Think you have to know and understand how Funders, academics and of course peers and patients view impact. Open access publishing should be first part of this strategy

@anita_atwal @dianecox61 Yes! It's looking at who we're sharing knowledge with and how - what tools make sense for reaching each group to decrease the evidence to practice gap & to ensure research is relevant to current practice & people's (occupational) wellbeing needs #OTalk

@anita_atwal @dianecox61 Also - to the occupational science & occupational therapy researchers out there, especially related to occupational justice, if you fancy sharing your research outcomes/learnings in a podcast format, we'd love to chat #OTalk #OT365

@OT_Expert @dmay_ot @dianecox61 @GeorgiaVineOT @margaretOT360 @TheSilverLineUK @AgeCymru @MindCharity Was wondering if there was an opportunity for an #OTalk to be focussed on what inspired us to be Occupational Therapists for those who may be interested in Occupational Therapy could join in with and follow up questions etc to help with their understanding of the profession etc?

 @OTalk @drlisataylor @OT_Expert @dmay_ot @dianecox61 @margaretOT360 @TheSilverLineUK @AgeCymru @MindCharity. I hosted an #OTalk as part of the virtual placement I did! I think it's a great idea to look at this and the power of online communities (sorry 🙄😅) for the future of OT!
